Insightful reviews

Jennifer: I wanted to like this book, but just couldn't really get into it. I knew a lot of the material already and wasn't keen on the writing style. Overall, I love the bizarre, but this book just wasn't for me.

Jenazepol: Wonderful, cool facts that I am really happy with.

Elaine Fisher: This is an interesting book filled with fun and sometimes horrific or hilarious facts that most people would never know or even dream of! I read such weird facts as: six people died from a brain-eating amoeba detected in Lake Havasu, a man-made lake on the border of Colorado and Arizona; and Attila the Hun did not die in battle, as many believe. He met his maker on his wedding night. After a night of lovemaking, he got a nasty nosebleed, and lost so much blood that he died! If you are interested in trivia or weird facts, you would probably love this book. I'm not a trivia nut, but once I started reading it, I couldn't get my nose out of it. Happy reading!

Danny: it really is precisely what it says it is, a booklet of odd proof and stories. They run throughout a beautiful widespread chew of the random trivialities spectrum, and as many of the entries are just a paragraph or in length, it really is most likely extra perfect for toilet examining than whatever else. plenty of fascinating stuff in there though.

Tori: i actually loved this book. It covers a variety of issues and very will get you thinking. I did take the various details and do a little of my very own research.
