Description

You know that overprotective PTA mom who needs to be resuscitated after she finds out you fed her son a hotdog? Or that couple who sends out the annual holiday letter about how their little Timmy came up with an alternative to fossil fuels while you're proud of simply replacing the lint catcher in your dryer once a year? You'll meet them again in Lauren Allison and Lisa Perry's laugh-out-loud compendium. Allison and Perry take on soccer moms, video dads, rabid gardeners, and grating couples in this collection of short, punchy essays. Less-than-perfect moms and dads everywhere will be sure to relate to the authors' portraits of the most annoying people around!

Insightful reviews

Les: Essays about the annoying women we all know and we all love to hate: the one who cooks three course meals for her family every night, the one who throws killer birthday parties for the 2 year old, the one who does amazing crafts with her kids and friends, the one who scrapbooks everything . . .

I laughed out loud. I'm glad I don't feel the need to compete with these women. I'm just me, imperfect and flawed, and happy that way.

Marjorie: A total crapfest is what this book amounts to. Not funny. The effort shown is cringe worthy as these 2 "authors" attempt to create mirth. I can think funnier thoughts that they can write.

I gave it a chance, I really did - reading more chapters than I could stand, but the book just isn't good!

Carol: Beware - do not read this book in public. It will have you laughing out loud and will cause strangers to look at your funny and wondering if they need to call the local psychiatric hospital for a pickup.

Julia Holden: There are approximately 50 funny essays poking enjoyable in any respect sorts of people--the craft mom, the grammar mom, the lady scout chief mom, and of course, the football mom. a few are funnier than others, yet a pleasant approach to go the time. I specially loved her rant at her Norweigian ancestors (during the name piece),being the reason for her paleness...I can relate!

Amy: What a disappointment. With this title, i assumed this could be fairly funny. Instead, was once lame little made-up stories.

Joan: this can be a choice of essays that pokes enjoyable on the "perfect-ly annoying" humans in our lives: the fogeys who dig a moat round their residence and set up a drawbridge to their entrance door so their daughter can adventure a pragmatic princess social gathering for her birthday, the husband who has a chilly and swears it really is malaria, the lady who will get all of her images in scrapbooks at the comparable day she develops the pictures, and so on. a few have been funnier than others to me, simply because i'll both photo a few of my friends, family, and buddies in these descriptions, or, many times, MYSELF! let's accept it...we all have a handful of habits, mannerisms, or attitudes approximately issues that simply tick a few humans off to no end. (I'm a morning person, by way of nature, the one one in my quick kinfolk who does not want 0.5 pot of espresso to get going, and that i comprehend that annoys the heck out of my family!) This e-book was once a light-hearted strategy to examine all of these little "things that computer virus us" approximately different people, in addition to see what it's approximately ourselves that others most likely cannot stand! A fun, speedy read--I used to be performed in a single day!
