Insightful reviews

Nicholas Maulucci: doctrinally solid. great evangelistic booklet. recommended for unsaved people.

Jason: A salvation message in book form, playing off the theme of Jesus's finished work on the cross of Calvary vs. religions that teach that you must do something to earn heaven. It is a book designed for non-Christians, though Christians may find some new ways to explain God's plan of salvation. Statements are amply supported with Scripture. There are some strange tendencies in the book's style, like opening many sentences with the word "friend," as in: "Friend, thank you for reading this review."

Timothy Adam Plumley: Very insightful booklet

it was a great read and had the greatest way of wording the ways of God's plan, well besides the bible's word, that is. would very much recommend this book to new believers and those on the fence about God(not that we can truly reside on a fence on this matter).

Christian Jerez Noboa: Una magistral explicación sobre los angeles gracia y los angeles misericordia de Dios. Por encima de lo que el ser humano quiera o pueda hacer, cuando ya todo está hecho por Jesús.

Chris: it is a nice book, a short read. i might strongly suggest for each new Christian to learn it. And when you are no longer but a Christian, hey, this could do it for you.

Norman Cook: it truly is attention-grabbing that my ultimate ebook of the 12 months is entitled Done. A good that means relative gave this to me to learn and that i absolutely meant to offer it my top shot. yet by way of web page three I simply couldn't get prior the author's axioms and for that reason knew i wouldn't have the ability to accept as true with his conclusions, so I minimize my losses and stopped reading.From the Introduction: "There has to be a purpose--a cause of it all.... There has to be greater than simply birth, life, death, and an never-ending evolutionary cycle randomly headed nowhere." No, there does not need to be greater than that at all. back from the Introduction: "You comprehend you have been created simply because your international indicates clever design." i do know no such thing. so far as i will determine, the universe exhibits totally no clever design.From bankruptcy 1: "If you are not anything yet a body, then all you actually need to stay up for is death. How may perhaps anyone relatively feel free if that is all of the destiny holds? If that's to be the final word ultimate vacation spot of your life, why might the rest matter?" those are straw-man arguments. i'm happy. i will feel free simply because i do know my lifestyles issues right here and now, and that my legacy with my family, friends, and the area will make a difference. Again from bankruptcy 1: "If you're greater than a freak organic accident, then you definitely are created. when you are created then you definitely have price in your Creator. He made you for a reason--a purpose. you will have importance and meaning--and lifestyles is greater than random occasions strung jointly via fate." this can be one other unsupported axiom. i do not recognize if i am greater than a organic accident, yet i've got no facts to think i am not. so far as i will be able to tell, lifestyles is certainly a sequence of random events. This book, and so much spiritual books i have encountered, make an analogous error in logic. this can be principally simply because faith isn't logical. faith is a philosophy that can not be confirmed or disproven by way of logical arguments.
